She founded her publishing company, Bright Ring Publishing, Inc. (www.brightring.com) in 1985 with her first book, Scribble Cookies (now titled Scribble Art). June 1, 2015, her newest book, Action Art: Hands-On Active Art Adventures, will be available, and it's loaded with physically exciting and inspiring art ideas for young children.

MaryAnn has written and/or published 20+ titles. She keeps a busy national presentation schedule throughout the year sharing her passion for process art with childcare providers, teachers, librarians, and educators. She is on the Board of Directors for the Independent Book Publishers Association (www.ibpa-online.org) and was chosen to be a Barnes and Noble Parent Expert (<http://www.barnesandnoble.com/u/maryann-kohl-importance-of-art/379002442/>) as well as a NAEYC Live Learning Center Speaker.

MaryAnn lives in Bellingham, Washington; daughter, Hannah Kohl is a musical theatre writer and producer on Broadway in New York City, and daughter Megan Kohl is a busy stage and voice-over actor in Chicago with her husband, 5th grade teacher Ned Harkness, and their new baby girl, Clio.
